WORKS IN PROGRESS:

- Processing data from 200 social workers, preschool teachers, and other social service providers on perceptions and misperceptions of African American family communication and discipline (using the Spike Lee film Crooklyn). My research team and I are continuing to statistically process the dozens of personality, demographic, and social perception variables for presentation and submission.

- Manuscript of 15 interviews with minorities from around the country for a book with the working title, Shopping While Black: Minority Experiences in Retail Marketplaces & Other Consumer Environments.
