Food Access and Affordability Fellow
Office of Sustainability

Description
The New London County Food Policy Council (NLCFPC) is a group of community organizations that are working collaboratively to transform the region's food system for improved health outcomes through policy advocacy and program innovation, alignment, and support. The NLCFPC collaborates with local farmers, community members, institutions and local businesses to increase food security by supporting sustainable agriculture in New London. The Food Access and Affordability Fellow will work with members of the NLCFPC to establish programs and support that allow food insecure families and individuals in New London County to have greater access to affordable, sustainable food.

The Food Access and Affordability Fellow will have the following responsibilities:
- Conduct research to determine potential programs or support that could be established that allow food insecure families and individuals in New London County to have greater access to affordable, sustainable food (e.g. double value SNAP program at farmers markets);
- Develop connections with and between local non-profit and for-profit organizations that are committed to increase the affordability and access for sustainable food for those who are food insecure in our county;
- Establish program recommendations and proposals increase the affordability and access for sustainable food for those who are food insecure in our county;
- Schedule meetings as needed with community members/organizations, in an effort to complete strategic projects;
- Attend all New London County Food Policy Council meetings;
- Develop ways in which food policy and its impacts can be integrated into the curriculum at the College;
- Other duties as assigned.
