

All programs will be conducted via Zoom, and all event times listed below are U.S. Eastern.

MONDAY, MARCH 1

5:30-6 p.m. Spring Open House Welcome

Join staff from the Office of Admission for a brief introduction and discussion of the week's events.

6-7 p.m. The First-Year Experience

Emily Morash, dean of first-year students, and Geoff Norbert, assistant dean of student engagement and new programs, will discuss how Conn welcomes new students and provides various forms of support during their first year. Current students will also speak about their experiences and ways to get involved on campus.

TUESDAY, MARCH 2

6-7 p.m. Career Preparation and Professional Development

Persephone Hall, director of the Hale Center for Career Development, will give an overview of our career preparation program and lead a discussion with current students about the ways Conn prepares students for a fulfilling life after graduation.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3

9-10 a.m. The International Student Experience

Assistant Dean of the College and International Student Adviser Carmela Patton and current students will provide a glimpse into what it's like to be an international student at Conn.

6-7 p.m. Connections Curriculum: Putting the Liberal Arts into Action

Dean of Admission and Financial Aid Andrew K. Strickler explains how Connections, our unique approach to the liberal arts, personalizes your education to make it more meaningful to you.

THURSDAY, MARCH 4

2, 3 and 4 p.m. Coffee with a Camel (hour-long sessions)

Our students want to share what it's like to be a Camel, so bring your favorite beverage and your questions about life at Conn to these small group chats. Note: This session is for prospective students only.

6-7 p.m. Admission During a Pandemic

Leaders from our Admission and Financial Aid offices will offer insights into searching for the right college and applying for admission and financial aid during these extraordinary times.

FRIDAY, MARCH 5

9-10 a.m. International Student Information Session

Join Associate Director and Coordinator of International Admission Victoria Macridis for an overview of Connecticut College, programs specific to international students, and details about applying for admission and financial aid.

2, 3 and 4 p.m. Coffee with a Camel (hour-long sessions)

Our students want to share what it's like to be a Camel, so bring your favorite beverage and your questions about life at Conn to these small group chats. Note: This session is for prospective students only.
