

Managing Election Stress

Tips and resources to cope with the current national discourse

Brought to you by
Connecticut College Student Counseling Services

UNPLUG: Limit your consumption of social media and the 24-hour non-stop images. It's important to stay informed, but creating boundaries is important.

BE PRESENT: Use reflection to recognize your inner thoughts and feelings. Be curious and non-judgmental and give yourself permission to feel the way you do. Although avoiding can be useful, "stuffing" or ignoring strong emotions can have negative impacts.

REFUEL: Focus on restoring yourself with rest and healthy food. Drink water and try to limit caffeine. Move a little every day. Take a walk; look at the sky; be in nature. Journal or meditate. Make art or watch funny videos. Read something fun.

CONNECT: Engage with supportive friends and allies. Talk about current issues, if needed, but be aware of when you're feeling overwhelmed. Not everyone will share your perspective, so it's OK to limit your topics and avoid heated conflict. Reach out to supportive services on-campus, including SCS.

DO SOMETHING: Channel what you're feeling into positive, meaningful activity. Be informed and proactive around issues that matter to you. Find ways to engage in your community through advocacy in ways that fit for you.

UNPLUG

Stay informed, but know your limits:

Monitor how you feel after news consumption. Feeling preoccupied or even upset by national events may be a sign to cut back on your news intake and limit social media discussions.

Consider scheduling a short block of time in the morning and one in the evening to catch up on news without checking for every new update during the day.

During “digital breaks,” take time to focus on something enjoyable, such as a hobby, exercising, being in nature or spending time with family and friends.

Check out this video for some more tips for “unplugging” during a stressful election time.

BE PRESENT

Consider practicing self-compassion as you work through challenging or uncertain times. Try some of these exercises compiled by Dr. Kristin Neff, a renowned researcher of self-compassion.

Grab your phone and your earbuds and head outside for a guided mindful walk to de-stress.

CONNECT

Five ways to build stronger connections

- 01 Write a letter
- 02 Pick up the phone and call
- 03 Ask meaningful questions
- 04 Answer questions with honesty
- 05 Connect via video

COMPASS

Robert Reffkin, Founder & CEO

Why Connect?

- ◆ To decrease loneliness, stress, depression, and anxiety
- ◆ To acknowledge collective trauma and experience solidarity
- ◆ To experiencing love and belonging
- ◆ To give and receive care and compassion

Connecting..connecting.... connecting....

Zoom fatigue is real, but sometimes it's our only option. So how do we connect without MORE stress? Try these tips:

- Establish “no screen” blocks of time in your day – times when you don't have classes, meetings, etc. (See “UNPLUG” above)
- While turning off your camera during class can be a relief, make sure you don't do it all the time. Leaving your camera on, even if you can only see your instructor and one other brave student, can help you feel connected and more focused on content.
- Avoid multi-tasking. Even though it can be tempting to use more than one device at a time or check emails and respond to texts while Zooming, focusing on the content of the meeting will actually give your brain a break! And we all need a bit more peace and focus right now!

Connecting Virtually

- ◆ Zoom dance party
- ◆ Netflix Party
- ◆ House Party App
- ◆ TikTok Challenges
- ◆ Virtual group workouts

- Virtual book clubs
- Virtual karaoke on Google Hangouts

Spiritual Connection

Spirituality can be one way to connect with yourself, others, nature, or a higher power(s).

DO SOMETHING

It can be challenging to stay motivated when everything around us seems chaotic and scary. But doing something – some action, no matter how small – can lessen some of the uncertainty.

What you do doesn't need to be political – taking a step to stand up for or stand in for a person or a cause or the environment means we're not powerless. Check out the ideas on this page!

Activism, service and generosity are a few ways to promote a sense of empowerment and contribution when we may be feeling helpless. Want to have a voice in local or national politics? Check this out for ideas!

Simply want to support a cause that you care about? You can volunteer locally or for a chapter of a national organization. Start here!

Connect with your Values

Identifying what is important to us can be one way to foster motivation. Try one of the values card sorts below and then consider how you can express your values on a daily basis.

- ♦ Printable version

Lean on your STRENGTHS

Knowing your strengths can help you address problems more effectively and engage in activities that generate confidence and purpose.

Try taking the VIA Character Strengths Survey to identify your strongest traits.

Wholeness

Think about what makes you feel whole, grounded, or like you.

It can be helpful to consider Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs.

After hours RESOURCES on campus

On-campus students experiencing an emergency should call Campus Safety at (860) 439-2222.

Off-campus students experiencing an emergency should call their local emergency services at 911 or the appropriate emergency resource number for their location.

On-campus students needing assistance after-hours
may reach an off-site licensed professional clinician who has partnered with us.

You can reach the service by calling (860) 439-4587 and pressing option 2.

This is a telephone-based mental health service that is available to all students in need of access to mental health support when Student Counseling Services is not open.

Students studying remotely, outside of Connecticut,
(both domestic and abroad), can reach a Student
Support Counselor 24/7 in real-time or to schedule a session. Support is provided in the event of a personal crisis and also connects students with providers, offering both short- and long-term counseling in multiple languages:
